Creative Movement facilitates developmental movement, encouraging optimal growth with brain/body learning, as well as confidence, focus/attention, strength, emotional stability, and awareness of self and others.

Camp Leaders

SUSANA RUDER was born in Ecuador, where she studied Early Childhood Education. She also studied permaculture and biodynamics. She spent four years in Camphill Beaver Run working in the therapeutic garden with children with developmental disabilities and completing a seminar on curative education.

JANELLE PETERSON is happiest when exploring outdoors with children. She has directed a family nature club, summer adventure camps, and nature-based classes, fields trips, and events. Her degree is in music education and therapy.

VICKI RAMSAY is a teacher of biology, geometry, agriculture, and art at Youth Initiative High School. With twenty-one years of service in alternative and environmental education, Vicki has worked in public schools, community programs, summer camps and at the Kickapoo Valley Reserve. She loves being out in nature with children of all ages, watching, learning and having adventures.

Camp Leaders

SHAWN LAVOIE has been a circus and physical theater performer for over a decade, performing locally and internationally as a clown, juggler, dancer, and acrobatic stilt walker. As a teacher he loves seeing young people's eyes brighten when they learn a new trick and find new strengths within themselves.

MANDY HERRICK holds a degree in Theatre/Dance and is a Somatic Movement Educator and Therapist. She has been teaching, performing, and choreographing professionally for more than fifteen years. Over the past several years, she has enjoyed teaching and watching children in Viroqua dance and move.

REBECCA HAWKLOVE received a B.S. in Environmental Science from the University of MN-Duluth. She has worked as a naturalist and coordinator of Environmental Education with youth for over twenty years, teaching low ropes courses and team-building activities.

RICE SPANN has never lost his love for bows and arrows since boyhood. He lives on a small homestead outside of Viroqua and enjoys making and shooting wood long-bows in his free time.
